

THE EDW. MALLEY CO.

The Annual Sale of Spring MEDICINES And Household REMEDIES

This sale is just another one of those once a year occasions when the demands of the public for everyday needs are met more than half a year with low prices.

Omega Oil, 45c
A low's Soothing Syrup, 20c
Weyb's 25 grain Litch Tablets 19c
Weyb's 35 grain Litch Tablets 25c
Lee's 45c Beef Extract 10c
2 grain 25c Quinine Pills 10c for 19c
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, 39c
Hoff's Malt Plain, 25c
1 lb's Malt with Iron 39c
1 lb's Malt, 25c
Canada Malt, 7c
Williams Pink Pills 45c
Doan's 3c Kidney Pills, 29c
Cart's Liver Pills, 15c
Hoff's Iron Pills, 39c
Hoff's Pills, 25c
Ayer's Pills, 25c
Schick's Pills, 19c
1 yd's Pinkham Pills, 20c
1 yd's Pinkham Pills, 14c
Brandt's Pills, 15c
5c Ripans Tablets, 39c
Pyramid Fire Cure, 45c
Seidlitz Powders, 10c to 12c doz.
Alco's Plasters 12c

Annual Spring Sale of Kitchen Furnishings.

The biggest values in kitchen furnishings ever shown in New Haven. No mail or telephone orders can be filled—articles going too fast for that.

100 Clothes Pins, 1c.
100 Feet Clothes Line, 1c.

Agate Ware.

1-qt. tea pots, 15c
1-qt. coffee pots, 15c
T. & A. kettles, 27c
12 in. Wash basins, 9c
Dis. pans, 20c
2-qt. lip preserving kettles, 9c
9 in. pie plates, 7c
2-quart pudding pans, 7c

NEW HAVEN.

The Man With A Cold

Is a nuisance to others as well as a sufferer himself. He is inexcusable when he can find so many excellent remedies at Hartwell's Prescription Pharmacy.

True, if he has a cold, it's doubtful if he can obtain a perfect cure. But it's rather late for a cold, and there is relief for even that annoying ailment. Stop sneezing and coughing. Stop at Hartwell's and get something to help you out. Come in and leave your garments while you do your shopping.

COR. HOWE AVENUE AND WHITE ST., SHELTON, CONN.

To Consider In Buying Paint.

Purity paints are sold somewhat as follows: The paint in this package is composed of strictly pure lead, pure zinc, oils, dryers and coloring matter. It is sold subject to chemical analysis. The lead is pure, so is the zinc, no doubt of it. But the coloring matter—that's where the rub comes in. Masury's Railroad Colors are always reliable.

HARRY RIDER'S,

615 Water Street, Bridgeport, Conn.
Telephone 546-2.

Satisfied

Are people who buy their bakery goods of our man. Watch for the yellow wagon.

Erdman & Elwell,

BETHEL BAKERS,
Fountain Place, Bethel, Conn.

A Fact!

We sell you a barrel of the best Brand Flour for $1.00. It's a fact. Plenty of water always to your grinding or sawing. Always glad to see you at the

SOUTH BRITAIN MILLS,

South Britain, Ct.

Horseshoeing

and wagon repairing. Wheels and all parts for any part of wagon work always on hand.

A. D. MUNSON,

BLACKSMITH AND WHEELWRIGHT,
South Britain, Ct.

THE WORLD ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR 1901.

Now On Sale At

Post Office News Store,

11 P. O. Arcade, Bridgeport.

P. H. DIXON,

CARRIAGE AND WAGON MAKING AND HORSESHOEING.
Special attention given to shoeing. Satisfactory work guaranteed. Satisfactory prices. Satisfactory service. Satisfactory results.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

STEPNEY.

THE OLD PENFIELD CARRIAGE FACTORY.

When one passes the old Penfield carriage factory at Stepney Depot with its signs of decay he is reminded that here, in other country places, the hum of industry was heard. Two factories have been burned on the site of the present structure, we learn, the last on January 1, 1852. Previous to that fire a thriving business in the manufacture of carriages was carried on by Lewis, William and Andrew Penfield, brothers. After the factory was rebuilt in 1852 the business was carried on by Penfield & Hubbell, the members of the firm being "Uncle Sam" Hubbell, William Penfield and Lewis Beers. Mr. Hubbell was the father of Hon. W. H. Hubbell of New Haven. The firm manufactured carriages for the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

HANFORD HUBBELL.

Hanford Hubbell, who has been a life long resident of this village, was laid to rest in the Stepney cemetery on Saturday. Mr. Hubbell was never married but for many years provided a home for his wife's mother, who died about two years ago, and since that time he has lived alone. In his younger days he was a bootmaker, but after that industry was abandoned in this town, he found employment of various kinds among his neighbors. Landon Hubbell, his only son, a surviving brother, came here immediately after the death and made arrangements for the funeral, which was attended by Rev. Mr. W. H. Hubbell at the home of Charles A. Hubbell.

Spring work is coming on with a rush at C. L. Smalley's, and as usual he is able to give his prompt attention.

Wilson Tyrrell was so unfortunate as to fall, the other night, and cut himself badly about the face and head. He is now in the city hospital, where he is expected to open the Julius Hawley place about April 1. It is said she will entertain city boarders.

C. L. Smalley, who advertised for a helper in his shop in The Bee, had so many applicants that he seriously thought of hiring a clerk to give personal attention to the matter.

Mrs. C. L. Smalley is in New Canaan, called there by the serious illness of her mother.

Frank Favreau has taken a position in the shop of C. L. Smalley.

Miss Winifred L. Wakeman is visiting friends in Brooklyn and expects to be absent several weeks.

The Microbe Co. met with small patronage on their return to the Stepney Depot. They left here on Friday. It is said they are to tour Rhode Island and then visit Maine.

Mrs. Mary E. Beers is the sick list.

Mrs. John Sherwood of Bridgeport is the guest of her father, Henry W. Edwards.

Miss Laura Booth, a teacher in Bethel school at Bridgeport, has been the guest of George Edwards.

Mrs. Mabel Manahan of Judd district, Bethel, has been entertained at the home of Miss May Osborne.

Rev. Mr. Braham and wife and Mrs. Buckingham are in Northville, called there to attend the funeral of a brother's wife.

The Lower Stepney Sunday school are to give a pound party in the schoolhouse, Friday evening, March 15. Edward Sherman will entertain the guests with selections from a phonograph. There will also be vocal music. After the entertainment they will be treated to refreshments, including clam chowder.

Henry Booth entertained friends from Bridgeport, last week.

Mrs. George Burritt visited old friends in Stepney, last week.

Mrs. A. J. Purdy has been suffering with neuralgia for the past few days.

Mrs. R. R. Buddington of Stratford is caring for her mother, Mrs. Sylvia Buddington, who has been suffering with an attack of grip. Mrs. Northrop is now improving.

SOUTHBRURY.

HULL'S HILL.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olson returned to their home in Danbury, last week. Mrs. Granville Warner spent a week in Bethel visiting her sister, son and family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Pierce expect to move the first of April to the Brookfield place.

C. B. Johnson has purchased quite an addition to his flock of sheep and lambs.

Only three persons were present at the session of the Sunday school, last Sunday, as it had been closed some time on account of sickness.

L. Hawley is improving his place by cutting brush.

Miss Margaret Smith fell in her room, at her daughter's, Mrs. J. B. Burr's, injuring her hip. Dr. Rodger was called.

DEATH OF ADAM GUTHRIE.

Adam Guthrie died on Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ruben Pierce of South Britain. His age was 89 years.

Miss Mary Monson spent Sunday here and expects to return to Waterbury, this week.

Burr Tuttle has recovered from an attack of the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamplugh have spent a few days with Mrs. Lamplugh parents.

Miss Ann Stiles is indisposed.

Mrs. George Wakelee has entertained Mr. Hutchins.

Mrs. Lent is caring for Mrs. Elizabeth Shelton.

Rev. J. Hutchins preached in the Methodist church on Sunday, and conducted the prayer meeting in the evening.

WESTON.

CHURCH AND PERSONAL MATTERS.

The Aid Society of the Congregational church held a very successful Social at the house of Mrs. J. M. Perry on Tuesday evening. The entertainment committee organized a Peanut Hunt, which occasioned much merriment.

The Matinee Whist club will be entertained by Mrs. W. P. Lockwood, at its next meeting on March 20.

Miss Sadie Sturges left town, last week, for Easton, Maryland, where she will spend some weeks with her father.

Miss Edna Meeker has returned

OUR NEIGHBORS.

STEPNEY.

THE OLD PENFIELD CARRIAGE FACTORY.

When one passes the old Penfield carriage factory at Stepney Depot with its signs of decay he is reminded that here, in other country places, the hum of industry was heard. Two factories have been burned on the site of the present structure, we learn, the last on January 1, 1852. Previous to that fire a thriving business in the manufacture of carriages was carried on by Lewis, William and Andrew Penfield, brothers. After the factory was rebuilt in 1852 the business was carried on by Penfield & Hubbell, the members of the firm being "Uncle Sam" Hubbell, William Penfield and Lewis Beers. Mr. Hubbell was the father of Hon. W. H. Hubbell of New Haven. The firm manufactured carriages for the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

HANFORD HUBBELL.

Hanford Hubbell, who has been a life long resident of this village, was laid to rest in the Stepney cemetery on Saturday. Mr. Hubbell was never married but for many years provided a home for his wife's mother, who died about two years ago, and since that time he has lived alone. In his younger days he was a bootmaker, but after that industry was abandoned in this town, he found employment of various kinds among his neighbors. Landon Hubbell, his only son, a surviving brother, came here immediately after the death and made arrangements for the funeral, which was attended by Rev. Mr. W. H. Hubbell at the home of Charles A. Hubbell.

Spring work is coming on with a rush at C. L. Smalley's, and as usual he is able to give his prompt attention.

Wilson Tyrrell was so unfortunate as to fall, the other night, and cut himself badly about the face and head.

He is now in the city hospital, where he is expected to open the Julius Hawley place about April 1. It is said she will entertain city boarders.

C. L. Smalley, who advertised for a helper in his shop in The Bee, had so many applicants that he seriously thought of hiring a clerk to give personal attention to the matter.

Mrs. C. L. Smalley is in New Canaan, called there by the serious illness of her mother.

Frank Favreau has taken a position in the shop of C. L. Smalley.

Miss Winifred L. Wakeman is visiting friends in Brooklyn and expects to be absent several weeks.

The Microbe Co. met with small patronage on their return to the Stepney Depot. They left here on Friday. It is said they are to tour Rhode Island and then visit Maine.

Mrs. Mary E. Beers is the sick list.

Mrs. John Sherwood of Bridgeport is the guest of her father, Henry W. Edwards.

Miss Laura Booth, a teacher in Bethel school at Bridgeport, has been the guest of George Edwards.

Mrs. Mabel Manahan of Judd district, Bethel, has been entertained at the home of Miss May Osborne.

Rev. Mr. Braham and wife and Mrs. Buckingham are in Northville, called there to attend the funeral of a brother's wife.

The Lower Stepney Sunday school are to give a pound party in the schoolhouse, Friday evening, March 15. Edward Sherman will entertain the guests with selections from a phonograph. There will also be vocal music. After the entertainment they will be treated to refreshments, including clam chowder.

Henry Booth entertained friends from Bridgeport, last week.

Mrs. George Burritt visited old friends in Stepney, last week.

Mrs. A. J. Purdy has been suffering with neuralgia for the past few days.

Mrs. R. R. Buddington of Stratford is caring for her mother, Mrs. Sylvia Buddington, who has been suffering with an attack of grip. Mrs. Northrop is now improving.

SOUTHBRURY.

HULL'S HILL.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Olson returned to their home in Danbury, last week. Mrs. Granville Warner spent a week in Bethel visiting her sister, son and family.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Pierce expect to move the first of April to the Brookfield place.

C. B. Johnson has purchased quite an addition to his flock of sheep and lambs.

Only three persons were present at the session of the Sunday school, last Sunday, as it had been closed some time on account of sickness.

L. Hawley is improving his place by cutting brush.

Miss Margaret Smith fell in her room, at her daughter's, Mrs. J. B. Burr's, injuring her hip. Dr. Rodger was called.

DEATH OF ADAM GUTHRIE.

Adam Guthrie died on Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ruben Pierce of South Britain. His age was 89 years.

Miss Mary Monson spent Sunday here and expects to return to Waterbury, this week.

Burr Tuttle has recovered from an attack of the grip.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamplugh have spent a few days with Mrs. Lamplugh parents.

Miss Ann Stiles is indisposed.

Mrs. George Wakelee has entertained Mr. Hutchins.

Mrs. Lent is caring for Mrs. Elizabeth Shelton.

Rev. J. Hutchins preached in the Methodist church on Sunday, and conducted the prayer meeting in the evening.

WESTON.

CHURCH AND PERSONAL MATTERS.

The Aid Society of the Congregational church held a very successful Social at the house of Mrs. J. M. Perry on Tuesday evening. The entertainment committee organized a Peanut Hunt, which occasioned much merriment.

The Matinee Whist club will be entertained by Mrs. W. P. Lockwood, at its next meeting on March 20.

Miss Sadie Sturges left town, last week, for Easton, Maryland, where she will spend some weeks with her father.

Miss Edna Meeker has returned from a visit in East Norwalk.

Robert McMahon, who has been very ill with measles, is recovering. Mrs. C. Bradley, who has been seriously ill with grip, is better. Mrs. S. A. Sturges, took a trip to Jersey City.

BETHEL.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are wagons in this section to-day made by this firm which are still in daily use. Mr. Beers dropped out of the firm along in 1856 and Mr. Hubbell retired from the firm about 1858. William H. Penfield continued alone for a time. Then Ira Penfield and Henry Hayden formed a partnership but did not continue long in business. Ira Penfield is still living in Danbury. The last person to do business there was William Penfield, father of William H. Penfield, the present owner of the property. William Penfield died about eight years ago. Among those who worked at their trade there was Stephen French, the present popular restaurateur and depot agent. The old factory is fast going to decay, but with a small amount of money expended on the building it would make a desirable place for light manufacturing. It would seem as if some of the small manufacturing concerns in the city would be glad to hire it, securing a good property near the railroad. Their expenses here would necessarily be light.

DEATH OF ORRIN BENEDICT.

Orrin Benedict, formerly a prominent one of the best known citizens of this town died at his late home in Grassy Plain district, Saturday March 15. He was 78 years of age. He was born in 1822. He was a member of the Southern trade, which was so stylish in those early days. There are